Affordable Protection for Critical Business Data and Applications—Even for Smaller Companies

You need to assure critical information and application availability because you can't allow a disaster to wipe out your data or indefinitely halt your business. Nor can you afford to shut down your operations to perform frequent, unavoidable data and system maintenance. You need a solution—one that fits your bottom line. iTera High Availability delivers. It is a highly autonomic, full-featured availability solution that is simple to use and easy on your budget, putting nonstop operations well within your grasp.
