Datanational Corporation Joins Epicor Inspired Partner Network

Farmington Hills, MI - Datanational Corporation has been invited to join the Epicor Inspired Partner Network, an elite group of top value-added resellers (VARs) and authorized consultants. This distinguished invitation has been extended due to the high level of support and service Datanational has provided businesses in their market and for their commitment to being a leader in the industry.

Datanational plans to sell and implement the next-generation Epicor enterprise resource planning (ERP) and Epicor CMS software solutions through its Managed Services offering of Hosted Solutions, or in a traditional customer installed environment. In a Hosted Solution Environment, systems and support will be provided for a fixed monthly charge with a low start-up/transition cost and low monthly subscription fees. A substantial service level agreement and reference accounts are also included.

"Our new partnership with Epicor is a natural extension of our enterprise IT services and solutions model," says Sandi Djokovic, Director of Sales and Marketing at Datanational Corporation. "We will now have the ability to incorporate Epicor ERP products as an integral part of our ERP consulting and IT managed services practice, which will provide our new clients with a turnkey solution for their business system requirements."

As a multi-platform services provider and systems integrator, Datanational has the expertise to host, monitor, implement and manage mission-critical application systems around the clock. The company provides a broad base of offerings, including hardware, operating system and application software expertise. This combination of skills delivers a wide range of solutions to businesses.

"We're excited to have Datanational join our growing channel partner community," says Matt Bauer, director, channel sales, ERP Americas, Epicor. "Datanational's experience and diverse skill set in providing deep expertise, innovation and a wide range of technology solutions to businesses will deliver superior value to our customers to help meet their growing business demands."
